Is it possible to use two jammers in one building?

2021/03/14

Hi Dan! I guess if you are asking such question then you know the basics, so I would not tell you what you already know. If you wish to use two signal jammers in one building, you have many things to consider. First of all, you need to determine if the jamming radius of your jammers will cross each other. If so, they must work with different frequency bands to avoid jamming each other along with needed effect. If the jamming radius is not crossed between jammers, you can use two jammers of the same kind. And if you are using two different jammed frequency signal jammers, you can forget about worrying that they will interrupt each other's work. So make your choice wisely and do not forget that there are jammers like adjustable multifrequency signal jammer which can be used as desktop signal blocker to cover the whole building. If you have some additional questions about this topic or any of the jammer types - do not hesitate to ask them!
